I think that would be very emotionally difficult for Sgt SMYTH, as he has no doubt steeled himself to do this in a couple of hours. He's got to be going through a lot right now and might change his mind if we delay. It would be great to have the observer there, but the re-enactment should speak for itself and I can't risk losing it by delay.

This is a good plan. However would we be able to hold off on the re enactment until tomorrow as we identify someone.

Pat,

If that person is identified / arranged, it would be of great benefit to have them present for the re-enactment.
