Just spoke to Rod. Daughter does NOT know what we are doing today, only that we need to get back into the house. Rod feels she might show up if she knew SMYTH was there so they didn't tell her. He doesn't anticipate any problems in that regard, but will have a marked unit there anyway.

Did we have her written consent. I do not think she should be there as Joe does this. It will be very difficult for Joe to face her and if she becomes emotional etc.

We should explain to her what we are doing.

Good to go for 1 in Mitchell's Brook. Just a note for consideration, the daughter has provided us her consent to enter residence. She has relayed to Cst Galway that she can't understand why the member had to shoot her father. She is upset and may very well attend the residence while we are there. I have requested a marked pc in the area during the re-enactment. Basically the longer we are there the more opportunity for something to happen. I think we should advise the daughter of our intentions but of course she can withdraw her consent at anytime.

Subject: Re-enactment

Steve,

Please advise Sgt SMYTH that I will be escorting a retired Judge to the scene as an observer. I will be picking the Judge up at noon here in St John's, and will be heading straight out to you, so if SMYTH leaves around the same time, we should be good.

Also, please give me directions to the scene.

Kent
