

Intelligence Led Policing

- A model of policing in which intelligence serves as a guide to operations.
- Recognizes the need to prevent and detect crime rather than simply react to it.
- The application of criminal intelligence analysis as an objective decision making tool to facilitate crime reduction and prevention through effective policing strategies and external partnership projects drawn from an evidential base.

